

New Town plans hit at hearing

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — Antagonists on both sides of the controversial New Town issue filled the county planning commission air with charges and countercharges for three hours yesterday in the battle over the county's general plan for the valley.

While Livermore and Pleasanton proponents loudly defended their cities' growth plans, land owners from the Las Positas Valley just as stoutly attacked the cities, particularly Livermore.

At stake are the county's plans for development of the sprawling Las Positas Valley north of Livermore where Danville developer Harlan Geldermann would like to build his New Town of 45,000 people.

The county's current general plan calls for eventual development of the whole valley to nearly 300,000 people. Federal and state environmental constraints peg the maximum population at 131,000.

But the county planning department last month proposed three alternatives to the old general plan, the first major change in some 10 years. The planning commission eventually must choose between:

- Full development of the Las Positas Valley, Dublin and the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton to a total population of 153,000 to 183,000 in 1995.

- Development of Geldermann's New Town with no further growth in the existing cities. Total population 121,000 to 143,000 by 1995.

- Growth according to the cities' general plans (about 2 per cent per year) and no development of New Town. Total population 114,000 to 142,000 in 1995.

The cities' planned growth would top the environmental limits of 131,000 by about 12,000 residents.

Livermore launched its barrage by asking planning commissioners to postpone the hearings for four to six weeks while the city reviews the plans and prepares comments.

The city just received its only copy of the plan Monday, said Mayor Helen Tirsell, and needs to run it passed its planning commission and city council.

Undaunted when her request was denied, the mayor had former county planning director Robert Williams argue the city's case.

Williams left the county in 1963 and worked on government and private development of New Towns across the country.

"The American New Town movement is in trouble," he said, claiming four of the 14 federally subsidized New Towns in the country "are about to go under" and "three are in jeopardy."

"Money, magnitude and marketing" brought about their failure," he said, adding some required five to seven years of operation to "turn around" and show a profit inspite of up to $50 million in federal underwriting.

"There will be a second generation of New Towns," he predicted, "but they will be drastically different from what we know."

Current planning, he said, calls for "villages" with populations up to 60,000 - where the city of Pleasanton is now - with a flow of 800,000 people a day.

Williams wants the cities to develop the valley according to their own general plan. Their 2 per cent growth rate is "designed to give the cities some breathing room after 15 years of rapid growth," claimed Williams.

Proponents of Geldermann's plan argued for the minimum development of both Las Positas Valley and the cities. Some pushed their case to even more development than called for in the current general plan.

One land owner, claiming 15 years of property taxes paid in the Las Positas Valley, said Williams' presentation "sounds like the second grade on the first day of school." Comparisons to New Towns in other parts of the country are not a relevant the northern California and the valley.

Another claimed the flat lands between I-580 and the rolling hills are not suitable for profitable agricultural use, and should be developed into home sites. He charged Livermore's general plan for the area has called for first agricultural then residential then industrial and now agricultural use in that area.

Land owner Bill Thompson said, "the social experiment i planning for the Livermore Valley in the past decade has been a failurep Livermore, he charged, is a "hodge podge of developments and high cost mini-parks."

The commission will take more testimony at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 in the Foothill High School cafeteria in Pleasanton.

Lab explains nuclear data to Hayakawa

LIVERMORE — United States Senator - elect Dr. S.I. Hayakawa visited the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory for a briefing on the nuclear weapons design and energy research and development programs Monday.

Senator - elect Hayakawa conferred with Dr. Roger E. Batzel, LLL director and Dr. Richard L. Wagner, associate director for nuclear testing. He was briefed on both the Lab's magnetic fusion and laser fusion programs.

Senator - elect Hayakawa, who has lectured at LLL in the past, also met with Dr. Edward Teller, university professor, emeritus, of the University of California and associate director, emeritus of LLL.

Before coming to the Lab, the senator - elect requested an explanation of the difference between fission and fusion in terms of an English college major could understand.

Dr. Teller presented Senator - elect Hayakawa with the following verse Teller had composed on the subject in the 1950s:

*F stands for fission; that is what things do
When they get wobbly and big and must split in two.*

*And just to confound the atomic confusion,
What fission has done may be undone by fusion.*

Patty Hearst removed from Pleasanton facility

PLEASANTON — Patricia Hearst, serving a seven-year sentence for bank robbery, yesterday was moved from the Federal Youth Correctional Facility here to the Metropolitan Corrections Center in San Diego "at her request."

Hearst has been housed here since her sentencing Sept. 24. She left the facility at about 4 a.m. Tuesday and arrived in San Diego at 12:15 p.m. yesterday.

A spokesman at the Pleasanton facility would not elaborate on Hearst's request, citing protective clauses of the Freedom of Information Act.

Her attorney, Albert Johnson, had been expected to visit her in California this week prior to a bail hearing in San Francisco Friday. He had earlier told the Associated Press that Hearst's health was poor, and her weight had dropped to 86 pounds since her sentencing.

Pipeline answers in doubt

The defeat of Measure U on last week's ballot, which would have provided funding for a wastewater disposal pipeline, has greatly complicated matters for the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Board of Directors.

The pipeline LAVWMA directors wanted — 15.62 million gallons per day (mgd) for residential and 4.1 mgd for industrial reserve — was defeated largely due to its costs, most observers believe.

But even if the industrial reserve capacity is excluded, residents would realize minimal savings in their increased monthly sewer service bills.

A 15.62 mgd pipeline, providing for a 2 per cent growth rate over the next 20 years Valleywide, would cost only 60 cents less per month in Livermore, 57 cents less in Pleasanton, and 8 cents more in areas served by the Valley Community Services District, when compared to the project voters defeated Nov. 2.

Under existing agreements, the LAVWMA board could order a 13 mgd pipeline be built without prior voter approval.

If an amendment to the joint powers agreement is approved tomorrow night, that maximum would be increased to 15.62.

Officials of the joint powers agency have several alternatives:

- Vote to build a 15.62 mgd pipeline with no further delay, and without voter approval.
- Ask voters again in March to approve a measure identical to Measure U.

- Ask voters to approve a 15.62 mgd pipeline.

- Purposely do nothing, and wait to see what federal and state agencies would do.

LAVWMA officials might be hesitant to go back before the voters, considering the sound trouncing Measure U sustained. In addition, school bond measures, police and fire department tax overrides, and the Las Positas overcrossing might be competing for the voter's dollar on the March ballot.

At present, federal and state grants will pay 87.5 per cent of the pipeline's cost for residential usage. Any industrial reserve would be paid for 100 per cent locally.

That promise of funding runs out September, 1977.

The deadline for having a wastewater system concept finalized was Nov. 2. The Valley is now in defiance of California Regional Water Quality Control Board orders.

LAVWMA attorney Ken Scheidig says the current construction timetable could be maintained even if the project is not approved until March "if we hustled."

Robert Philcox, chairman of the LAVWMA board and mayor of Pleasanton, was uneasy over the defeat of Measure U.

"Pleasanton doesn't really have much of a future without it," Philcox said in reference to the pipeline project.

"Pleasanton since 1960 has gone on record to support a regional solution to the problem out here," he said. Pleasanton was the only Valley entity to carry Measure U, and only by a small margin.

Philcox said the city is now trying to slow residential growth while building an industrial base. This, he argues, would better the city's tax base and help complete dead-end roads and finance other projects.

"Approval of U (in Pleasanton) shows that people recognize the need for industrial growth," he said.

Eight names for 5 spots on commission

PLEASANTON — Eight residents have applied for the five at - large positions on the city's new Human Services Commission.

Two of the applicants, Phil Cooper and Anna Martinsen, formerly sat on the Community Concerns Committee, a forerunner of the new commission.

Other applicants for the positions are Jean Bell, Phyllis Bullock, Barbara Hemphill, Sharon Kosch, Diana Leathers, and A.S. Tenbrink.

The city council will interview all of the applicants in a public session Monday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. and closing at approximately 9 p.m. Then the council will conduct a study session on an unrelated topic, the goals and policy statements for the city's growth management plan.

The Human services Commission was created by the city council to help the city implement the social element of its general plan. Pleasanton was one of the first cities in the state to meet the state - mandated requirements for including a social element in its general plan and has hired a staff person, Danne McKenna, to work four days a week at city hall to serve the new commission and assess local social needs.

The new policy has meant a change in name for the old Department of Park and Recreation. As of Nov. 1 that department has been changed to the Department of Human Resources, much to the confusion of callers who still ask for the park and recreation department.

The department is still in the park and recreation business, but has added the new social dimension, explained Director of Human Resources Robert Caporusso.

"Actually much of our work already was in human services," said Caporusso. "We had programs for senior citizens and youth recreation. We still will have a park and recreation commission which will deal with those areas and the new commission will take care of implementing the general plan's social element."

Human Services Commissioners will serve four year terms and the five at - large seats are joined by three ex - officio members, including one each from the planning commission, park and recreation commission and housing authority. The terms will be staggered with one pair of commissioners serving one year prior to reappointment, another pair two years and so on to a full four year term served by one pair.

Commissioners will be charged with the following duties: identify the human service needs of the community and determine their priorities; develop and recommend to the city council specific programs and/or actions designed to meet the identified human service needs of the community; evaluate the successes of programs or actions undertaken.

Other duties include keeping tabs on social services available in the community and evaluating their effectiveness; represent the city or maintain liaison with public and private human service agencies on programs of interest to the community; and inform, and advise the city council concerning actions by federal, state and other public or private human service agencies which may be of interest to the city.

Mayor asks for guideline on conflict

PLEASANTON — Mayor Robert Philcox has asked the Fair Political Practices Committee in Sacramento for specific guidelines concerning conflicts of interest.

Philcox made his request through City Attorney Ken Scheidig late Monday night during the city council meeting.

Philcox is a vice - president of First National Bank of Pleasanton. He told The Times yesterday that some people have raised questions about whether he should be voting on certain issues involving his bank's customers.

Philcox is not a major stockholder in the bank, but he has asked Scheidig at various times whether he would have a conflict of interest on certain issues.

For example, Philcox announced Monday night that he had asked Scheidig if he had a conflict of interest on a vote on whether to allow Pleasanton Body Shop a driveway on Vervais Avenue. The bank is financing the body shop.

Scheidig noted that Philcox abstained from voting when the council granted Bernard the permit to build his body shop, but a check with the FPPC in Sacramento showed the vote driveway would present no problem with conflict of interest.

Question over who fits in Komandorski replacement vote

put the question to voters in the unincorporated area.

The question is: just how big will the voting area be? A spokesperson for the county council's office yesterday said that state law declares voters in the area where the housing will be built must be consulted. But the law is not clear on just how big the area is.

There is no precedent for Thompson's legal question because the county housing authority has never built any units in unincorporated areas.

Although Thompson does not know how large an area will be polled in the March election, he is confident that voters will approve the replacement housing by approximately the same 3-1 margin as in 1972. It's not an issue affecting local property tax payers.

Funding for the replacement housing can come from any of three sources: federal government, state government, or the housing authority's ability to float bonds to build the housing itself.

Thompson told The Times that building on the Komandorski site is the only "foreseeable way of replacing the housing". The housing authority "owns the property already and we have a better chance of getting approval, depending on the federal guidelines", said Thompson.

The attitude of Valley Community Services District, which would provide sewer connections to the new housing as it does for the existing 169 units, is crucial. Communication between the housing authority and VCSA has been good, said Thompson.

The only stickler is the recent defeat of Proposition U, which would finance the cross - valley sewer line enabling VCSA to take more sewage hookups. Like many other potential developers, the housing authority will have to wait until the sewage logjam is resolved before it can actually build the units.

Fair board opposes race switch

PLEASANTON — County Fair Association directors last night voted unanimously to oppose a proposal to transfer a four-week harness racing season from Sacramento to Golden Gate Fields in July of 1977.

The proposed switch could create economic problems for the Alameda County Fair at Pleasanton, secretary manager Lee Hall said as well as stabling problems.

Hall said the proposed night harness season would conflict with just three days of the '77 meet but would be in direct competition with the Sonoma County Fair.

The board also learned that the State Department and Department of Fairs and Expositions had told fair representatives to increase their anticipated revenues from parking, racing, concessions and attendance. The budget, in its amended form, was approved.

For the first time in its history, the fair association submitted a deficit budget to the county. This was caused when the fair racing season was cancelled and pickets maintained a vigil outside fair gates.

The capital improvement program had been virtually scratched, including the $550,000 Amador Livestock Pavilion. Fair directors also learned that $2,500 is still budgeted for a 1977 fair parade. Whether the parade receives that funding is dependent upon the City of Pleasanton announcing its support for either the fair parade or the annual KNBR Good Times parade.

Amador teachers reject latest contract package

Amador Valley Joint School District teachers and administration negotiators will go back to the mediation table after a 115 to 66 rejection by teachers yesterday of a tentative contract agreement for 1976-77.

The rejection made last night's scheduled action on the pact by district trustees a moot point.

The high school teachers representative council will meet today to determine the next course of action.

Pleasanton teacher boycott nixed

Pleasanton Joint School District teachers will end their boycott of unpaid duties Friday, a teacher unit spokesman saying the "boycott proved to be a hardship on teachers because it interfered with their classroom preparation."

"The ending of the boycott does not indicate a change in the Amador Valley Teacher Association's position in regards to negotiations," cautioned Audrey Walker, public relations chairwoman for AVTA.

While Pleasanton teacher and administration negotiators are preparing for the start of mediation, probably by Friday, teachers in the Murray School District were getting ready to vote by secret ballot on a tentative agreement reached early Monday.

Murray teachers will vote at their respective schools between 8 and 12 noon Friday. The Murray school board will vote on ratification Monday night at Frederiksen School.

Teacher representatives and school board members all expressed optimism that the voting would be a mere formality, in the wake of favorable comments from both sides on the tentative agreement.

The Amador Valley Teachers Association, which represents Pleasanton teachers, declared an impasse in negotiations earlier in the month and the Educational Employment Relations Board has appointed John McCarthy as mediator.

AVTA President Tom Zach earlier opined that mediation could begin by today but more likely by the end of the week.

AVTA has announced a strategy committee has been formed with action guide lines given by the representative council.

These actions will begin when mediation commences.

Zach said "AVTA still made by both sides before a fair contract can be reached."

Nipper hearing Nov. 15

Alameda County Bureau
HAYWARD — Carl Nipper's revised plans for a housing development on Pleasanton Ridge near Sunol will get their first airing before the county planning commission Nov. 15.

The commission will meet Nov. 9 to discuss general plan alternatives for the valley.

Nipper, battling the county for more than two years in his attempt to build the 300-home "rancho de la Cresta," has new plans calling for 96 residential lots on 450 acres of the ridge off Kilkare Road.

He has renamed his project Rancho Sunol Estates and plans to develop 1 1/2 to 16 acre homesites in the $80,000 to $100,000 bracket.

The commission will meet at the county public works building, 399 Elmhurst St., Hayward at 1:30 p.m.

School building boom

LIVERMORE — School construction resulting from recent bond approval heads the list of permits and valuations issued by the city's building inspection department.

Including five new "core" schools and several additions, the "new public" heading totals $5.5 million in valuation.

Madis, city settle

LIVERMORE — Out of court settlement was reached Monday on yet another David Madis argument with the city.

This particular disagreement stems from an attempt by Madis to sell parcels of land he owns on either side of Trevarno Road — an area with 12 houses considered by city officials to be part of Livermore's heritage.

Madis sought a writ of mandate ordering the city to approve his parcel map in preparation for sale of the property. He thought the city staff was delaying the project.

A compromise agreement was signed Monday, according to assistant city attorney Gary Reiners, who said the city relaxed some of its standard subdivision requirements.

The land — once owned by Coast Manufacturers, producers of gunpowder and dynamite at the turn of the century — had been considered by city planning and public works staff members an excellent place for industrial development and sought improvements by Madis for industrial standards.

Early last year the area was redesignated residential-heritage.

Madis will still be required to make certain improvements, said Reiners, but without city supervision. Madis was given a six month time deferment for most of the improvements.

Cable dealer backs down

Leshar News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Faced with the possible loss of its franchise, Cable-Vision has notified the Board of Supervisors that it will comply with county rates and regulations.

Supervisors in turn decided at a public hearing Tuesday not to revoke the cable company's franchise.

The dispute was over the rate the cable company could charge for underground installation. Supervisors in August raised the rates but told the company all persons in their homes before Aug. 17 had to be charged the old rate.

The company, defying the supervisors, then notified 400 of its customers in the disputed Danville and Walnut Creek areas that they would be connected only if they paid an additional charge of $50 over the old rate.

Customers in Walnut Creek and Danville had been waiting for months for the television cable service. The company had refused to connect anyone who did not pay the extra money.

The company said it would connect all those customers in their homes prior to Aug. 17 at the old rate. The old rate was $37.50. The new rate which went into effect on Aug. 17 is $177.50.

County Administrator Art Will said the company now appears to be in compliance with the county ordinances.

Planning delay studied

PLEASANTON — The planning staff will keep track of how long it takes for a developer to have a simple planning application processed.

Planning Commissioner Bill Jamieson told the staff at the commission meeting last week that he has had complaints about how long it takes to process an application. Jamieson called for a staff report on the supposed problem, but withdrew that request when he decided a staff report would take too long.

Instead the staff will record the date the application begins its journey and list it alongside the item when that item appears on the planning commission agenda. This will give commissioners a good estimate of how much lag there is in processing the application.

Part of the reason for the delay is the necessity to publish a public hearing notice for each development proposal, said Planning Director Robert Harris. That time lag of 10 to 14 days coupled with the scheduling of regular monthly meetings of the commission can mean a delay of up to six weeks, depending on the date the planning applicant dropped off his papers to the staff.

Income quiz data offered area veterans

Veterans or their dependents needing help with income questionnaires sent with this month's Veterans Administration check may contact the Alameda County Social Services Agency at 874-5788 or 874-7313.

An information and referral worker will assist veterans on the phone or in person at the agency's Berkeley office, 2530 San Pablo Ave. Appointments can also be arranged at other local offices including Livermore if a personal contact is needed.

Jenny Hunter (above) examines the fossil of a Pleistocene crab found in Australia and acquired by Joyce McFate, a Pleasanton collector. Mrs. McFate (right) describes the huge mammoth tooth she discovered in the valley to a young student of fossils, Michele Stoball.

Mammoths in the valley?

Local fossils tell the story

By JEAN McKENNA

Would you recognize the tooth of a mammoth if you saw one?

That lumbering giant of the Ice Age 10,000 years ago only had four teeth — but each was a whopper, measuring nearly a foot long from its flat crown to its jagged root.

Fascination with fossils for Robert and Joyce McFate began with their extraordinary discovery of a mammoth tooth in a field between Pleasanton and Livermore. The exact location, they say, is secret because the University of California is presently examining the site since mammoth remains have never before been found there.

The weighty tooth is the piece de resistance in a display of fossils which earned the top award in the category for individual cases at a statewide gem and mineral show at San Francisco this summer. That same prize-winning display will be featured at the upcoming gem and mineral show — Lithorama — sponsored by the Livermore Valley Lithophiles.

The second annual show sponsored by the Lithophiles (the name means "rock lovers") is open free to the public Saturday, Nov. 20 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at The Barn in Livermore.

Rock hounds for many years, the McFates were drawn to the study of fossils and the circumstances surrounding their creation through their amazing discovery.

"The study of fossils is a relatively new science, and interesting to me because it is so complex," explains Joyce. "Its study may require knowledge of biology, zoology, anatomy, geology and natural history. In the local area, the study is complicated by the grinding and upheaval where continental plates meet underground. The strata of fossils have been turned around, and many older fossils have been crushed."

The area between San Jose to the south and Antioch to the north is one of the richest fossil belts in the state, and possibly the country. According to Joyce, this area has been underwater and contains a wealth of fossils from two ages — the older Cretaceous Period of 100 million years ago, and the younger Miocene Period of 25 million years ago.

During a later period known as the Pleistocene (immediately preceding the Ice Age of the mammoths) the valley was a tropical marsh which was home to African-like camels, dogs, horses and cats.

Joyce has been extensively involved in education of the young to the wonders of fossils, and has in the past given numerous lectures to elementary school classes. That task is now handled by docents of the Amador - Livermore Valley Historical Museum which may be reached at 462-2766.

"Some of the greatest scientific discoveries in fossils have been made by children," Joyce declares.

Many times Joyce has opened the eyes of a youngster to the value of fossils. What may look like nothing to the uneducated, may be of tremendous value to an expert. She emphasizes the difference between merely picking up a fossil as a curiosity, and collecting fossils.

"It is important that we take the time to record where we have found a fossil, otherwise much of its value is lost. A collector will ask an expert to identify the fossil, or look for the answer in books. The next step is to see that the fossil is not damaged." Joyce uses a variety of fixatives to stabilize the fossils she finds and prevent chipping or crumbling.

She also recommends membership in a fossil group or gem and mineral club such as the Lithophiles or statewide Fossils for Fun as a good way to launch a collecting hobby.

AAUW coordinates Nov. 17 'rape alert'

Are you aware that burglary carries a stiffer sentence than rape? Did you know that psychologically, rape is a crisis comparable to the death of a husband or child?

A program entitled "Rape Alert: Are You Safe in the Suburbs?" will be presented by the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Wednesday, Nov. 17 at the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church. The 8 p.m. program features a distinguished panel with extensive personal experience with victims of sexual assault and a film on rape prevention.

Panelists are Oleta Abrams, Alameda County victim-witness consultant to the district attorney's office; Judy Turner, social worker at Valley Memorial Hospital; James Serna, detective for the Livermore Police Department; Ellen Slack, Liz Irvine and Joanna Hansen, representatives of South Alameda County Women Against Rape; and Dorris Fagan, Livermore consultant on women's issues and discussion moderator.

The public is welcome to the program free of charge. Membership in the AAUW is open throughout the year. For information contact Janis Foster at 846-8785.

Lancers end Bulldogs' winning streak

Dublin's Lancers ended the undefeated streak of the Vacaville Bulldogs, 12-0 Saturday in Pop Warner football action on the losers' field.

The Lancers used a strong defense in defeating the Bulldogs.

Roger Riggs blocked a punt to set up the first Lancer TD which came on a five-yard quarterback keeper by Todd Fraser. The second touchdown was scored by Riggs on a two-yard run which culminated an 85-yard drive. The top highlight of the drive was a 58-yard pass play from Fraser to Chris Elbert.

Elbert racked up 249 yards rushing behind the fine blocking of Ken McNeil, Rob Gray and John Petlansky.

The Lancers rolled up 291 yards total rushing compared to 125 for Vacaville.

Jon Hunter had an interception for the winners. Chris Elbert had 11 tackles and Steve Smith, Roger Riggs and John Staley teamed up for an outstanding defensive game.

The Livermore Vikings used a balanced offensive attack in taking a 26-6 win over the Concord Colts.

Kevin Trudeau threw three touchdown passes and Jack Trudeau totaled 52 yards rushing. Mark Sanchez added 51 yards.

Livermore had 175 yards passing and a total offensive mark of 278 against the Colts' 125.

Todd Dry, Jack Trudeau, Doug Hones and Bob Giachello had an outstanding night defensively for the winners. Mark Riley had a fumble and Jack Trudeau intercepted a pass for the Vikings.

The Vikings have clinched their Division title and will meet the Vacaville Bulldogs in the midweek playoff game scheduled for November 21st at Alhambra High School in Martinez to decide the Golden Empire Conference championship.

The Dublin Squires clinched the Pee Wee Division championship by beating the Vacaville Bulldogs' representative 30-12.

John Rasmussen ran 23 yards for a score to culminate a 82-yard drive for the winners. The Squires defeated 12 of 20 passes for 139 yards. They had 372 yards rushing.

The Dublin Knights lost a tough fought Sunday afternoon game against Fort. Ord in Monterey. Complete statistics for the contest were not available.

Lee has all the information

In the Bag

Lee Ashford — that's the big tall lad who raps on your camper door down at the Los Banos Refuge along about 3:30 A.M. to let you know it's time to get up and sign in for your duck hunting.

He has all the information you'll need about the general area, where the best producers are apt to be, and you can rely on him. Lee says he thinks the new limit of two boxes (50 shells) with a maximum shot size of deuces will be a good thing. Time will tell.

Kesterson NWR (Area 4) is slowly getting water, and may be filled adequately in the next few days. There is some water south of the road (Gun Club Road) but so far the ducks haven't been attracted to it. With more water this should be a good spot.

Local hunters who went out of state to find the big elk are still bringing back stories of their adventures.

Lloyd Newton and son Craig had a most successful trip to Colorado where they joined Jim Sanderson in the San Luis Valley area. Jim and his father farm in the valley and know the country well, so they were expert guides.

They loaded their gear into Jim's bronco and headed out for the east side of Wolf Creek Pass. At 10,000 feet, Lloyd says there was a real chill in the air.

Two days of scouting went by before Jim connected with a nice 5 - pointer. The big bull field dressed at about 450 pounds — sure not a bad size! The next day, Craig saw his chance; a big elk just standing there across the trail.

While Craig was deciding just what to do, the elk quickly faded away into the thick timber. That's when Craig said to himself, "Next time I'll make the first move!"

Lloyd's turn came the following day when he sighted a big bull in thick timber. It was nearing sundown, but Lloyd got off a good shot. However the big elk was able to bolt into the timber and away from the hunters. Darkness prevented them from tracking the elk until the following day.

Craig proved to be a real trail finder, as he discovered the fallen elk early in the morning. As luck would have it the bull went down within 250 yards of a road (if it could be called that) and, of course, it was all up a steep hill.

Lloyd's bull was a 6 x 6 with a spread of 41 inches. According to the game ranger at the Del Norte, Colorado check - in station, the elk was 4½ years old. When Lloyd checked in the meat (no hide, head or horns) at the Pleasanton Lockers, it weighed 302 pounds.

Lloyd was using a Rem. Mod. 760 in 270 Cal. with Lyman All American four - power scope, and 1 - minute Lee Dot with 130 grain Silvertip (factory). Craig used the same kind of equipment.

Jim used a 7 mm Rem. Magnum with a 140 grain factory load. Next year, they say, they're going to try for the granddaddy of that 6 - point bull.

Pheasant season is coming right up — next Saturday, to be exact. Prospects should be good at the Refuges. The following will be open to pheasant hunters: Colusa, Sutter, Merced, Delevan, and Sacramento.

All are north of Livermore except Merced NWR, which is down between Merced and El Nido. To reach the area, go to Merced, and take highway 59 south. Turn right on Sandy Mush Road and you'll soon see the Refuge headquarters on your left.

This should be a good place to hunt, though it's only open from Noon to sunset on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

The other places mentioned are open to those holding waterfowl hunting permits. But hunting for pheasants will not open until 8:00 A.M.

Even at $10 a throw, Merced seems to be the place to go as it shows a ratio of 5.1 bird average per hunter so far this season. With Mendota shows an average of 3.7 and Los Banos, 3.5.

Save the date of November 21 for a Merchandise Shoot at the Livermore - Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club.

Pat Lathrop, president of the club, says the first squad will start around 10 A.M. for 16 yards, Handicap, and Doubles practice, as well as skeet. The six - man squad will be the order of the day unless you can come up with your own squad.

League governors approve playoffs

DANVILLE — A four team post-season play - off will determine the East Bay Athletic League's 1976-77 representative to the North Coast Section play-off as the result of a proposal passed by the EBAL Board of Governors at their meeting here yesterday.

The plan is still tentative, pending approval of the NCS to the EBAL sending a non - champion to the tournament. As part of the proposal, made by league basketball coaches, the round robin winner would still be awarded the trophy as league champion.

Granada coach Pat Francisco, who presented the motion to the Board, said the play-offs would provide added incentive for teams throughout the year and would curb the effects of injuries and illness on the teams.

"It will also be an incentive to the newer schools," he said. Francisco also pointed out the monetary advantages of the plan and cited attendance figures of 10,000 for games in the Mission Valley Athletic League play-off last year.

Gary Yates of Monte Vista and San Ramon athletic director Larry DeRushia, both former cage coaches, pointed out the advantages of the system and how it has worked in the Catholic and Richmond-Berkeley leagues.

And Francisco said, by determining the NCS representative through a play-off which included half the league, less bitterness might exist between the schools.

"Our own tournament (The Livermore City Classic) has been good, but it's been bad. We've been on the floor and been booed by kids from the other league schools," he recalled. "It'd be too bad to be booed in the North Coast tournament."

The play-offs, which will pit the first-place team against the third place team and the second - place team against the fourth - place team, will be reviewed by the league after this year's series. Under the format agreed upon, the first place team would have to lose twice to be eliminated from the tournament.

The only objection to the play-offs came from Dublin athletic director Dennis Wong, who claimed that basketball was being favored as a money-making sport.

"We just tabled a motion for two more baseball games, but were asking for two more basketball games," he pointed out. "We'll end up eliminating everything that doesn't make money; it's best to treat all 17 sports the same."

But the motion carried. Yates concluded, "I think the coaches have done their homework."

In another fairly important action, the Board decided to play off all baseball ties the following school day and made mandatory the replay of any postponed games.

It also:
A) Turned down a request for a two dollar raise by the Contra Costa Baseball Officials Association.

B) Denied the request for an additional two practice baseball games.

C) Passed a resolution supporting the goals and objectives of the North Coast Section as outlined by Commissioner Paul Gaddini.

D) Decided not to seriously consider a proposal by the Diablo Valley Athletic League pertaining to possible realignment.

E) Directed league volleyball coaches to adopt the same tie-breaking play-off that exists in basketball.

F) Retain the current wrestling officials association as opposed to utilizing Chabot and Diablo Valley College wrestlers as referees.

G) Replaced Amador Valley's Skip Mohatt with San Ramon's Russ Critchfield as the EBAL's representative to the North Coast basketball coaches committee since Mohatt is the chairman of that body.

H) Approved the revival of a league novice wrestling tournament, to be held at Foothill December 11.

I) Approved a list of maximum ticket prices for various sport.

J) Returned to the old method of selecting nominees for the All-EBAL soccer team.

Denver rally tops GS

Hot-shooting Denver turned back the skidding Golden State Warriors, 123-117, for its eighth consecutive NBA victory before a sellout crowd of 17,577 at McNichols Sports Arena Tuesday night.

It was the third straight loss for the Warriors, now 3-5 in the Pacific Division of the NBA's Western Conference. The last time Golden State lost three straight league games was back in February, 1975.

The Warriors came out smoking as Phil Smith led them to 35-24 lead in the first quarter.

But the Golden Staters, who seem to have a penchant for fading in the second quarter this season, reverted to type and watched the Nuggets literally blow them off the court in the second period with a 37-point blitz that gave the home club a 61-57 lead. After that, there was no looking back for the only unbeaten team in the NBA this season.

WARRIORS 35 22 28 32 — 117
DENVER 24 37 31 31 — 123

Coach Sue Shoemaker expressed the only adequate words after her Dublin team Girls' Volleyball dropped a three - set loss to Monte Vista yesterday, and with it chances of an undisputed EBAL title.

"We should've beat 'em," Shoemaker uttered after the 15-3, 7-15, 15-8 loss. "Nothing comes easy for us. Now we have to do it the hard way."

Dublin, in losing to the Mustangs, threw the East Bay Athletic League race into a three - way jam. San Ramon, Monte Vista and Dublin all finished the season at 10-4.

Playoffs for the North Coast representative begin today at Monte Vista High School, where the Gaels and San Ramon tangle at 3:30.

Tomorrow evening at 7 p.m., the winner of today's contest plays the Mustangs, who got the bye as a result of a coin flip. The deciding game will be played on the court of today's losing school, in order to provide neutrality.

The win marked a miraculous second - half comeback for the Mustangs, who won their final five games in succession to gain a title tie, including wins over San Ramon and Granada.

"We talked positive all week," Monte Vista coach Ann Eyler replied after the match. "We have a very winning attitude in girls' sports at Monte Vista High."

Eyler, whose Mustangs have won the title outright the past three years, is quite happy with this year's finish. "This time we had to share the title, that's all," she admitted.

The Mustangs turned around a tight third game in their favor by utilizing fine offensive prowess to put away the Gaels.

The two teams played neck - and - neck through the first half of the final game, with no team gaining a clear cut advantage.

However, The Mustangs broke a 6-6 tie and went ahead 8-6, before the Gaels came right back to tie at 8-8.

From that point, the volleys exchanged hands eight times, as the squads battled head-to-toe for serve points.

Carol Dolsby broke the ice for MV by ramming a hard spike down the Dublin front line, and with it came the momentum.

"After we went ahead 8-6, I wasn't worried too much," said Eyler. "We weren't playing our game, we were playing Dublin's before that."

"We're a very offensive, spiking team," she emphasized, "which we weren't doing. But once we started playing our game, we went ahead."

From that point, Linda Silva took over as server and followed through with three more points, as the Dubliners broke down after a couple of questionable hit calls by the officials.

Twice the Gaels seemingly regained the volley, but both times the refs called "no point" because of one player from each team touching the net.

"After that, it just turned the game around," muttered Shoemaker. "We just started falling apart and the offense just completely broke down."

"They just got nervous and froze up," Shoemaker continued. "They stopped attacking. And if they don't attack, they won't win."

Eyler reiterated Shoemaker's analysis. "Once a team gets down six or seven points, they fall back and lose a psychological edge."

After MV took an 11-8 lead, Shoemaker called time out to regroup her troops.

"I told them I'd rather see you hit the ball into the net than to let it go. They weren't hitting the ball. I told them just to hit the ball."

But Sue Collar's slicing serve kept the Gaels off balance and she served the final four points for the Mustang win.

Dublin won the second set behind good efforts by Kathie Center, Karen Jewell and Lind Doyal. Center served for seven consecutive points at one time to pull the Gaels from a slim 2-1 lead to a hefty 9-1 advantage. Dublin eventually took the game, 15-7.

Monte Vista was rampant in winning the first game. Karin Fischer scored five points on serves while Dolsby added three. The Gaels, at one point, were tied with the Mustangs in the first set at 3-3, before the Alamo gang romped to the 15-3 win.

In tomorrow's match between the Gaels and San Ramon, Shoemaker feels her team can regroup. "We had a good second game today," she said. "Karen (Jewell) had a good front row game and Kathie (Center) a good back row game. But we just didn't have the whole thing together. I feel we can beat San Ramon."

The Gaels will have to "do it the hard way" starting today in Alamo.

Glads' reign ends

CUPERTINO — Athletic espionage is impossible to counteract. A team can close its practice sessions, but once the bell rings there's ample opportunity for an opponent to observe and, if it chooses, adopt its tactics.

For the Chabot College soccer team, which was eliminated from the chase for the final Northern California play-off spot by DeAnza, 2-0, here yesterday, it was a case of being too good an example.

"We taught all these guys (other Golden Gate Conference schools) how to play," said a mournful Chabot coach John Shaw afterward. "They're copying our system, they're copying our plays — they're even using our warm-ups."

That, and an absence of good fortune, was to Shaw as good a reason as any for the Gladiators' recent tumble from the top of the GGC heap.

"You have to have luck to win championships," he said. "And we didn't have that this year."

As evidence, he cited last week's loss to first - place Foothill, in which the Owls sent the game into overtime with a late goal and then scored a controversial goal to deny the Glads two crucial points in the standings.

"We lost the season by 90 seconds, frankly," Shaw continued. "We'd have had first but for 90 seconds."

Yesterday's loss, which forces a Shaw - coached team out of the play - offs for the first time ever, was only slightly less of a cliff-hanger.

Both DeAnza goals came with less than 10 minutes to go in the game.

With 37 minutes gone in the second half, Larry Rendon dumped the ball into an empty Chabot net after a scramble in front of the cage had drawn goalie Pete Howard far out to the right of his normal position.

Less than a minute later, Russ Ellis added the insurance goal that laid to rest Chabot hopes of an overtime.

Shaw cited a "mix-up on defense" for the first goal, but pointed out that a Glad emphasis on offense took away from the defense. A tie would have done the Glads no good in the race for the GGC's third play-off spot.

Chabot meanwhile had a shot glance off the DeAnza net in the first half and saw Carlos Escalante's late game loft come to rest atop the roof of the Don goal.

"I thought we played well, although maybe we didn't hustle enough," said Shaw. "You couldn't play your best in a game like that because of the pressure."

On offense, he said, "We had two periods of the utmost pressure and break here, a break there... who knows?"

Statistically, however, DeAnza won all the battles. The Dons unleashed 26 shots, 17 of which required Howard's attention, while Chabot could manage 14, only one saved by goalie Dave Holtecamp.

DeAnza also had 10 corner kicks to Chabot's one. The Dons join California's top - ranked team, Foothill, and an as yet unknown third side in the state play-offs which begin Saturday.

County math

One thing that Valley Pipeline might have done for us — had the voters consented — was to remove this basin once and for all from the kind of misty mathematics which keep cropping up as the benchmark for all our community dreams.

We saw it in those interminable "General Plan" studies undertaken by the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton ... "If we grow to 3x thousand by the year 19x we will be a much happier people than if we grow to 4x thousand by the year 19x." And so it went.

Now we have the same kind of advanced math dominating an Alameda County "Master Plan" for much of this basin. The figures are different, the logic is just as silly.

"If we assume no growth whatsoever in Livermore and in Pleasanton, but full development of 'New Town' to its 44,000 capacity, then ..."

Then the sky opens up and Chicken Little comes to the rescue. Alameda County has no authority whatsoever to "assume no growth whatsoever" in the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton. The very best that board of supervisors could do would be to force Harlan Geldermann's 'New Town' onto us despite all local protestations, and thereby divide up the basin's "available growth potential" among those two cities, Dublin and Geldermann's new folly.

With Valerie Raymond now joining that county board we might at least expect a firmer Valley voice on the subject of New Town ... namely that the venture makes no sense whatsoever as long as state and federal environmental controls affix tight restraint on this basin's total "holding capacity."

Those restraints would have been more clearly defined, and locally controlled, had that Valley Pipeline been voted in as the ultimate answer to our waste-disposal woes. At least, then, there could have been one set of mathematics for all to use.

But now the vacuum still exists. We all play the numbers' game. Alameda County is holding a series of "Guess The Total" hearings. But no one has time to discuss quality, culture, economics or those other values we used to ascribe to "The Community."

It's "planning with the numbers." And it's very sad.

City staff

Just how important is gravel around Pleasanton City Hall anyway? A few months ago, Councilman William Herlihy was dismayed that the planning staff replied to the Alameda County Planning Department about a pending quarry permit near Pleasanton without also referring it to the city council. Herlihy is the city's representative to the Valley Sand and Gravel Committee and you can bet he was chagrined. If nothing else, there are big implications for truck traffic in any quarry permit and Herlihy has hammered loud and long about the gravel industry's trucks on First Street.

The newest development on the gravel front is a public hearing in Sacramento Nov. 16 before the State Board of Mining and Geology. The board wants input on guidelines for policies which will affect the reclamation of mined lands and around here that means gravel pits. It's an important item and Pleasanton City Planning Director Robert Harris said he will discuss the guidelines with "members of the city council," though he did not promise to bring them up at a council meeting. He also didn't mention the planning commission, which has a long agenda at its next meeting. But if the planning commission misses a chance at it, Planning Commissioner Walt Wood's recent words ought to be recalled: "There seems to be a trend that the staff can take care of it. I feel the staff is there to help us, but there is a need for the commission to give input to the city council. Otherwise, why have a planning commission?"

Ecology Center's Xmas

Editor, The Times:

The Valley Ecology Center receives many queries at this time of year from concerned citizens who want to be able to celebrate Christmas holidays joyously without adding to the ever-increasing burden of waste and the depletion of our vital natural resources. We recommend that everyone consider giving presents that will minimize energy usage. Some ideas are books, magazine subscription, arts and crafts materials, games and sports equipment, plants, tools, antiques, musical instruments, jewelry, artwork, and gifts that create warmth and lead to energy savings such as sweaters and blankets. A gift you make yourself is always appreciated — try making things from scrap materials or from fruits and vegetables from your garden. The Ecology Center's Information Center, 401 South K Street, Livermore (open Thursday, 10 a.m. — 5 p.m.) has the Alternate Celebrations Catalogue, Holidays, Gifts and the Energy Crisis, and a folder full of specific suggestions for ecological ways to celebrate Christmas.

The Center's Organic Gardening group will have many ecological gifts for sale at the Livermore Bazaar at the Recreation Center on Nov. 12 (10 a.m. — 8 p.m.) and Nov. 13 (10 a.m. — 4 p.m.). Included will be plants, herbs, and a variety of items made from recycled materials. A special effort has been made to provide gifts priced at 10 cents — 25 cents that children can enjoy buying and giving. Christmas cards made from recycled paper will be available at the Bazaar and at the Information Center.

For more holiday ideas please call 443-LIVE.

City close

Were it not from the prestigious National Association of Home Builders Association's weekly tabloid, it would read like supervisor elect Valerie Raymond's campaign literature of the past six months.

They call it an "urban renaissance" in their Aug. 2 publication. Valerie calls it "in-filling."

But it's all Greek to me. Aristotelean, to be precise.

Aristotle, his sexism notwithstanding, said, "Man is an animal who lives in a polis" — not a suburb.

That monumental migration of the post war baby boom that promised us "country quiet — city close" living has turned into a financial and cultural bust that threatens to sink us all.

Suburbia, says the NAHB, panthered to the depression/war generation's perception of what kids needed: large yards, expansive neighborhoods, nearby schools and flight from the congestion and intensity of urban life.

Now we have the ironic sight of suburbia chasing the once dread industry in order to balance a tax base that rests absurdly on the shoulders of the very homeowners who fled the noise, congestion and industry of the cities. Remarkable.

And the builders, continues the NAHB, facing

"environmental restrictions," "sewer moratoria" and public concern over the loss of prime agricultural lands, especially in California, are looking back toward cities.

And they're making money at it, too. A sure sign of things to come.

Smaller, often childless families, the high energy cost of transportation — not to mention the absurdity of traveling 60 miles each day in order to "relax" at home — are making builders take second looks at the urban core. But this time through the eyes of young homeowners demanding art, culture, convenient commerce and a short shuffle to work.

The old cry of cities as a horrible place to raise kids seems to fall on deaf ears for the "controlled" family, the one that for the first time in history picks its size.

Growing up in The City's concrete Mission District sans Aliotoesque palm trees doesn't seem to have effected my psyche that much, the opinion of some miscreants notwithstanding.

The Mission, when my grandparents bought their standard San Franciscana, 25-foot wide home in the valley below Potrero Hill, was a sort of "suburbia." It was and still is a compact neighborhood centered around a minor but complete commercial hub, but never more than 15 mass transit minutes away from the industry that balanced the city and provided employment.

Ironically, Walnut Creek's refurbished downtown resembles Mission Street circa 1955 more than it does The Great Shopping Center in the Sky that went along with urban flight.

Successful builders, extrapolating on the NAHB, have rediscovered that idea, and while some have given industry to suburbia, others have taken to refurbishing — hopefully not "redeveloping" or "Manhattanizing" — the cities.

Financing varies from small builders who at first had to con lenders into supporting a "back to the cities" theory, to gargantuan plans that give private, profit making developers the right of eminent domain — not, I would think, a very Aristotelean idea.

Who buys these city center homes? I thought you'd never ask.

"Young, well educated white liberals," according to the NAHB.

Those who have read Aristotle, according to me. What the sexist student of Plato meant by "Man is an animal who lives in a polis," is that he — and she — is a political animal. One who lives in a "polis" is one who shares the complete community with art, industry, commerce and the balance of life that allows him to govern himself. Thus, claimed Aristotle, does he differ from other animals.

Residential splashes on the road map of life and decaying, sometimes already dead high-rise jungles do not make anything even remotely resembling the Greek city-state.

People who work in one town and live in another don't give a damn about either, I said, because they haven't the time or energy to commit themselves to governing themselves.

Look who leads Livermore and Pleasanton. The men and women who own the cheese palace, newspaper, insurance and real estate offices and who live here. The ones who work down the street and up your block at the Lab.

Hindsight/Foresight

Fair $$ & state

The County Fair Association finds itself between a rock and a hard place in its efforts to squeeze a few more operational dollars out of the state.

As reported to the full board this week, the state has informed the Fair Association it will have to increase its budget revenue projections.

Fairs are entitled to $65,000 to cover operational expenses. However, there is no hard and fast rule that says they'll automatically get that amount. The Pleasanton fair has been less than fortunate in this regard.

County Fair Association Secretary - Manager Lee Hall and directors were hopeful the state would increase the Fair's allocation this year, in light of the drastic reduction in revenues caused by the cancellation of horse racing and picketing by Service Employees International Union (SEIU) members.

Not only will the Fair Association have to boost budget revenue projections, but it has scrapped capital improvements for the coming year, most notably the Amador Livestock Pavilion project.

Hiking revenue projections means two things, the directors will have to take another look at all those activities that produce revenues — such as rental of buildings and grounds, and admissions — and wage an even more aggressive public relations campaign for the entertainment dollar.

The proposed budget, which went through the annual review in Sacramento Oct. 26, reflects the financial impact of the county strike.

For example, the balance available to begin the year for operating revenues is $631,902, almost half-a-million dollars less than on Jan. 1 of this year.

The operating budget is based on the same level of program and operating requirements as that for the last normal Fair (1975), with known adjustments made for wage increases over the two-year period.

Adds county administrator Loren Ench, in his message to the Board of Supervisors, "The capital budget is a continuation of the long-term capital program, which provides for the replacement of the livestock barns with a new pavilion."

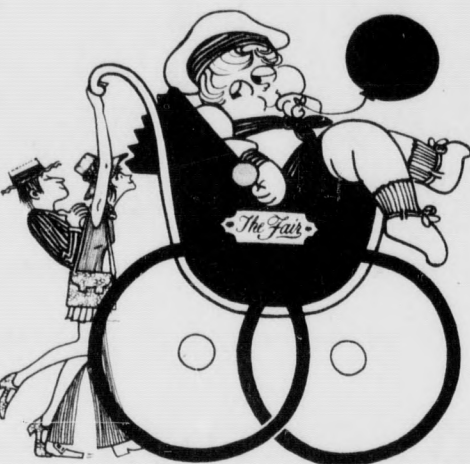

But the capital program is dependent upon operating profits. Thus, the entire program must be deferred until sufficient monies are available in the operating balance or the state comes through with an additional allocation.

Well, so much for that idea! Or does someone in the official county family have a friend in the state Department of Finance?

Speaking of friends, the Fair directors lost a long-time friend when John Murphy was not re-elected to the county board. Murphy's office space arrangements with the Fair Association, incidentally, run out as of Jan. 1, 1977.

If Fair directors and administration have any thoughts about the new supervisor for the First District, they're keeping them to themselves. Which is not necessarily bad.

Fair directors, meet Valerie Raymond.

Car theft puzzle

Editor, The Times:

Re: Mr. Neil Heilpern's "Forgetful" article

"Chances are I will have forgotten ... even my head." I am forced to quote you, sir, because that is the only rational explanation for your comments. You must have led a very sheltered life indeed if you have not heard of the officers throughout this state who have met death making "routine" traffic stops, stops on vehicles that did not make the "computer banks go Tilt!"

Mr. Heilpern, stealing a car in the State of California is a felony. That offers the potential that the occupants of the car ... very probably are using the car to escape another crime ...

... if you can truthfully tell me that you are willing to pull over to the side of the street a car which you know is stolen, go up to the window with but a smile, and say in effect "Hi, I'm a policeman. You are driving a stolen car. Do you mind if I arrest you?" then I suggest you join one of the reserve units in the valley, or go to the effort of riding with a patrol unit for an evening, and get a little practical exposure to those "passive fellow" you spoke of. They may do nothing but get out of the stolen car and into your patrol unit, or they may physically resist, or they may just pull out a weapon and shoot you dead, sir. ...

The policemen did not shoot your two "puzzle-faced" gentlemen. They were simply prepared in case.

You have a responsibility, sir, if you are going to write articles for the public don't try to tell them that the police were wrong, as your article intimates. Your letter suggests, "Here's another case of police brutality or over-reaction, folks." You are misleading your readers, sir, and are mocking simple logic, reason, and the law.

Berry's World

"Frightfully sorry, old chap, but you see all my money is tied up in pounds!"

round the town

Australia, the new land. Peopled by brave types who can learn to live with the long drought, the sudden flood, the mice that eat everything that's left after the wallabies are through.

It is not for the timid, or the spoiled. It is sure no place for Hollywood types like Anne Baxter.

I have come to that conclusion after reading Intermission — a true story by Anne Baxter. If Anne is really telling it like it is, or was, then she's writing about a different country and a different people than my lady and I came to know, in our journey Down Under.

Granted, much of our exposure was second hand. Courtesy of a son and his Australian bride. They live the land, fight the plague, raise the kids on stale water. Jim and Deirdree don't try to hide the hardships. That's not the Australian way. But neither is it Australian to complain.

"Wouldn't do much good anyway, would it mate?" That's the kind of Aussie we met, in our stay there.

Anne Baxter found another kind of Australia, during her Intermission. She married an American whose first love (I assume) was this 30,000-acre ranch north of Sydney. Anne left Hollywood, her career, her luxuries and her fans to share that life "in the Australian Outback."

Anne was really never that far from Sydney. Or that far from Hollywood either, as it turns out. But while she was there, sharing hubby's ranch, Miss Baxter did more to set back American understanding of Australia than anything since that last "Penal Colony" movie epic.

First off she resolved to spruce up that funny old ranch house.

"Setting my coffee down on the skinny teak table in front of the curved couch facing the fireplace. I leaned back and admired the six panels of Japanese horses covering the wall opposite the fire ... his leather campaign chair in the far corner, black and white and gold tea canister lamps, loosely woven linen curtains and brass rods ..."

Anne had a ton of her Beverly Hills furnishings shipped out "to put the place right." I suspect her Australian neighbors thought she had gone bonkers.

Jim and Deirdree never have much time for re-decorating. Their own view of Australia is more from the bottom up.

"The little bit of rain that has fallen over the past few months has left us in very bad shape ... the cattle spend their energy trying to reach the green feed before the wallabies get it all ... the dams are so low the cows are bogging down as they go for a drink ... I have pulled out 14 cows. Some I have had to shoot."

Jim is an American who decided to try his hand in Australia. Just like Anne Baxter. The similarity ends right there.

She attacked the old house and the land with imported zeal and talent to match. She stuck it out for "five long years" ... interrupted only by two return trips to Hollywood to make a couple of movies, a concert or two in Sydney when "dear old friends came ... like a breath of fresh air from another world."

Anne must have forgotten how foul the air around Hollywood really gets. Not even counting the smog. I don't think she ever had a chance to taste the Australian air because she was always puffing on a cigarette ... "curled up with a Bach ... or the Boston Symphony Orchestra" ... while the music brought back memories of her other world ... and probably scared hell out of the cattle.

"A lot of our corn has been planted three times ... the birds keep eating the seed as fast as we can plant it." Jim writes of his problems in the matter-of-fact style learned from his Australian peers. No color, no comment. Just the simple statement of life on a ranch, 250 miles inside Queensland.

We have come to know that land, its people, and love them all, through the message of those letters. It is a sweet - sad story of tears and triumph, of a young American building a new life for his family, against impossible odds.

Anne Baxter makes it all sound like a brief stopover in between movies, and husbands. She put her experiences in a book, Putnam published it, sells for about $10.

Save your money. For a 50-cent bottle of beer I'll let you read Jim's letters. He doesn't have Anne Baxter's style. But then again, she doesn't come close to his feel for the land, or the people.

Abusive students

Editor, The Times:

What would you do with a student who is allowed to continually disrupt a class, verbally abuse teachers, threaten other students, and disobey school rules? Nothing — if you are a staff member of the Livermore Valley Unified School District.

Our school board's recent rejection of corporal punishment as a form of behavior change has given the student permission to continue in this manner. They have further accepted a suspension plan that is inoperable, thus reducing discipline to the "rapping" level!

Perhaps they can afford to vote this way because they are not the victims. Perhaps they have forgotten about the remaining students who have a right to a decent education. Perhaps they will realize that it need not be abused, but only used when necessary. Perhaps they will realize it is a last resort means after all other plans have been exhausted.

Perhaps they will realize it will be administered by a responsible adult out of concern and not a power play. Perhaps they will take a lesson from nature and witness how the rest of God's creatures discipline their young. Perhaps they will change their minds before it's too late ...

For Wednesday, Nov. 10, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone of whom you think very highly could be a severe disappointment today. The blow will be considerably lessened if you allow for this person's frailties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to be a bit flirtatious today. You could unwittingly give some "come hither" signs to the wrong person. Watch where you cast your roving eye.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't feel you have to spend money today in order to impress others. The big shot role isn't worth it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a tendency to procrastinate too much for your own good today. Tasks will be swept under the rug.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't give of yourself or your possessions today if your generosity has strings attached. The response you hope for won't be there.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's marvelous to be able to say nice things about our friends, but don't flatter the undeserving today. Insincere applause will have a hollow ring.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If your ambitions were in harmony with your hopes today, you could easily wear the laurels of victory. However, it's probable you won't make the effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're inclined to step out of character today. Instead of seeing things realistically, you'll see them in rose-tinted hues. You could get burned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The world doesn't owe you a free ride today, though it may be hard to convince you otherwise. Don't expect to get more than you deserve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Clandestine adventures may be particularly appealing to you today. Be careful. You could tread on a loved one's heartstrings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility today that under certain conditions you could make promises you'll find hard to keep. Sometimes it's more honest to just say "no."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In social situations today don't attempt to be anything other than what you really are. Affections will turn others off.

Your Birthday

Conditions this year will be easier for you than they have been in the past. Be sure to always keep in mind that "to waste not is to want not."

spades. South took his ace and, after a brief period of study and silent prayer, led a trump to dummy's king. He then finessed for East's queen on the way back, picked it up and claimed his grand slam, since he could chuck his last spade on the king of diamonds.

"What a silly bid and silly play," said West. "Who ever heard of bidding a grand slam when you needed a finesse?"

Actually, seven hearts was the right bid. South would make seven if he picked up the queen of trumps. He would only make five if he didn't. Furthermore, West's jump overcall had indicated great length in spades and shortness somewhere else so South was correct in playing for a trump finesse rather than trying for a drop.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that proves nothing except that bridge is a remarkable game.

South thought of opening with a forcing two bid, but decided his hand was just a trifle too weak for that action. So he settled for one heart. West stuck in one of those preemptive jump overcalls and North decided to jump to four hearts.

This gave South a chance to move into high gear. He Blackwooded to four and five notrump and went to seven when North showed one ace and two kings. Somehow or other he had forgotten about the queen of trumps when he bid the grand slam.

West opened his king of

Broadmoor has a way to go

SAN RAMON — Broadmoor Homes, Inc. hopes to complete their 1,028-unit housing development one-half mile east of I-680 on Crow Canyon Rd. in four and one-half years.

They began their project January 17, 1976 planning to finish it in eight phases. Schedules for developing each phase depend on prevailing market conditions.

The houses will utilize three separate concepts of single family dwellings. One will be the detached single family unit. Another, the garden manor. The last will have four separate units on their four respective lots but all will be under one common roof. They will be called family villas.

All homes will be one-story with the exception of two. Prices per unit will range from $65,000 to $115,000.

So far, the project has cost $100 million, according to Broadmoor Homes, Inc. Senior Vice - President, General Manager Ray Boone.

There are 431 acres involved in the development with 90 acres designated to be left as open space.

A 34,000 sq. ft. club house will adjoin an 18 hole golf course. The course will cover 120 acres.

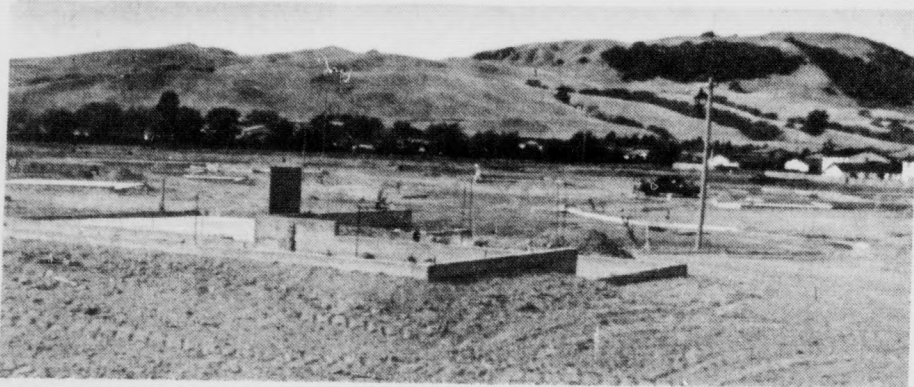

Other recreational facilities include six swimming pools and 13 tennis courts. An AAU-size pool will be located next to the clubhouse.

As far as impact on local schools is concerned, Boone said clearance had been received from the school district before development was started.

Boone said traffic flow from the development should not cause any problems. Adequate paving equal to four lanes will be available at important points of egress, he said.

Broadmoor Homes, Incorporated was the biggest backer of the fight against incorporation of Alamo, Danville and San Ramon, according to Stuart Rider. Rider, a developer, was a member of the Work Against Increased Taxes (WAIT) group that opposed that incorporation issue.

He said Broadmoor put up $10,000 for the WAIT campaign.

Development of the Broadmoor complex has cost $100 million so far.

One ballot SR election

Leshar News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Before July 1, the county must hold one of its smallest elections, by post card yet.

The Board of Supervisors Tuesday called for a special election in San Ramon to form a special service area, to be known as M-22.

Because the area to be formed as the district is owned wholly by Broadmoor Development Co., only one ballot will be cast and that probably by post card, according to Joseph Connery.

Connery, executive officer for the Local Agency Formation Commission, said the law requires property owners to vote on such service area formations. Since the firm is the only owner, a post card ballot will be used.

M-22 will provide street lights, road and landscape maintenance for an area destined to become a new subdivision.

Pipeline studied LAVWMA picks up the pieces

And then there's Stoneridge.

"Stoneridge Shopping Center is really an important plum to the city of Pleasanton and this really sets it back. I don't know how long those people can hang in there."

The VCSO sewage plant, which services that part of Pleasanton, can again begin issuing sewer connection permits when the present treatment capacity of 4.4 mgd is increased to 5 mgd. "And that's when the pipeline is built," Philcox said.

Stoneridge is heavily invested in Pleasanton, Philcox said, but the point of no return is the issuance of sewer connections. "They don't put up the money until the connections are sold."

— by Bill Cauble

The Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) will meet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Pleasanton City Council Chambers, 30 West Angela St., to decide what to do with the Valley's sewage problem.

LAVWMA directors and staff will meet with representatives of the state Regional Water Quality Control Board to review the options left in disposing of the Valley's wastewater.

Measure U, which would have financed a 19.72 million gallon per day (mgd) wastewater pipeline with 4.1 mgd of industrial reserve, was defeated in the general election.

If the Valley continues to dump its wastewater into Alameda Creek, where it flows downstream and pollutes the underground fresh water supplies of Fremont, it faces fines up to $10,000 a day and a building ban.

LAVWMA directors will review the vote totals which defeated Measure U. The timetable and an amendment to the joint powers agreement between the three governmental agencies will also be discussed.

The Murray School District will have minimum days today and Thursday with parent conferences scheduled.

Body shop wins its driveway

PLEASANTON — The city council unanimously granted Pleasanton Body Shop a driveway on Vervais Avenue over the protests of two neighbors with homes on the street Monday night.

The action culminated a long series of disputes between the residents and the body shop. Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire said that the original mistake was granting the zoning for the use many years ago, but since that's water under the dam the current city council has to place conditions which make the situation as easy to live with as possible for all parties concerned.

With that in mind LeClaire added conditions such as berms in the driveway to slow down traffic and a limit of business hours to 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and no power tools used after noon on Saturdays.

Councilman William Herlihy recognized the body shop has a problem with traffic backing out of its one entrance on Stanley Boulevard, but he thought that some solution other than the driveway might be worked out between the body shop owners and the neighbors.

Originally the gate was denied by the city council as a protection to the Vervais Avenue residents. But the planning staff had underestimated the number of cars which would be stored in the driveway and didn't foresee problems with backing to Santa Rita Road.

Councilman William Herlihy saw developments as a falling domino effect, with the body shop finally getting all it wants, including the Vervais Avenue driveway. He wanted the parties, including the city, to solve the backing up problem without building the Vervais driveway.

"It's fantastic that we do business this way," said Herlihy. "I'm appalled." He later joined the other four council members in voting for the driveway after LeClaire inserted the extra conditions. Philcox thought the council may have gone too far with the conditions, but sided with the others anyway.

Dan Pons, one of the Vervais Avenue residents, complained that the body shop had violated earlier conditions in regard to office hours and noise levels. Councilman Frank Brandes pointed out that if conditions are violated in the future, the body shop could lose its conditional use permit to operate. A public hearing would be called in that case so both sides could air their arguments, said City Attorney Ken Scheidig.

Buenas Vidas Youth

Ranch offers a unique service to teenagers of southern Alameda County, with little public support. The Jaycee Wives and other groups have been active in supporting the facility, located in the abandoned Del Valle Sanitarium south of town and help is welcomed at any time.

To feed Shadow Cliffs

Kaiser offers water

OAKLAND — An "operations nightmare" at Shadow Cliffs Park will be eased soon, thanks to a cooperative agreement between Kaiser Sand and Gravel Company and the East Bay Regional Park District.

The nightmare, according to EBRP water management specialist Bob Nuzum, is the way the water level fluctuates.

One day the water is lapping at tables on the beach; another, all the fishing piers are high and dry.

Docks have to be moved, boats are stranded and the beach is never the same width.

The solution agreed to by Kaiser, who donated the mined out gravel pit to EBRPD for a park, will be for the gravel company to pump some 8 million gallons of water a month into the lake from their nearby operations.

According to Nuzum, getting rid of ground water is a constant problem for Kaiser. The Regional Water Quality Control Board only allows the firm to discharge water into the Arroyo Del Valle between December and April.

The water which will be piped into Shadow Cliffs Lake will have first been used to wash gravel, then cleaned in a three-stage settling process.

"It's very good water," Nuzum reported to a pleased EBRPD board at yesterday afternoon's meeting in Oakland.

Nuzum said the only potential problem is a higher nitrate content in Kaiser's water. He said EBRPD knew of methods to deal with that problem if it arises.

Before the Kaiser agreement was devised, EBRPD was considering spending some $35,000 to dig a well 400 feet deep and 12 inches in diameter to feed the lake with a 1,000-gallon-per-minute flow.

In addition, they were expecting to pay $5,000 or $6,000 a year for pumping power.

"The evaporation rate and percolation rate at Shadow Cliffs are much higher than expected," Nuzum said yesterday. He could offer no explanation for the phenomenon which was keeping Shadow Cliffs at a low ebb. He added that Kaiser's 30 year plan calls for digging deeper than before in another site and probably lowering the water table even more.

The agreement between the park district and Kaiser will go to the Regional Water Quality Control Board before the new system goes into effect. There will be no cost to EBRPD.

Rotarians seek authority for benefit in Livermore

LIVERMORE — Recreation directors tonight consider a request by Livermore Rotary Club to hold a musical concert at Robinson Park Stadium next May to raise money to complete its project of lighting the field.

The $100,000 project has been in the works two years, with completion of planning and engineering, installation of all electric conduits, concrete bases and other underground structures.

The poles have been ordered.

"With the completion of the lights and eventually the dressing rooms and showers," said Rotary President Dick Fitch in a letter to LARPD, "the stadium can become truly multi-purpose."

"Such a facility will greatly enhance the cultural and recreational opportunities of our community and can be a great benefit to many organizations and citizens."

Other agenda items include:

— A request by David Madis, owner of other Trevano Road property adjacent to LARPD offices, to join him in an improvement benefit district.

— a request to change the name of Carnegie Park to Bicentennial Square.

— a report and recommendation on district acquisition of an electronic data processing system.

— a report and recommendation on negotiations for rights for public access to Sycamore Grove and Veterans Park.

CC waste plan wins approval

Leshner News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Final approval has been given the county's proposed solid waste plan, and now it's up to the county's cities to okay it.

The Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved the document which must be approved by 50 per cent of Contra Costa's cities representing half the unincorporated population of the county by Dec. 1.

The state Solid Waste Management has set a Dec. 1 deadline for submitting the plan for approval. If the deadline isn't met, the state has threatened suit by the state Attorney General, said board chairman Al Dias, also a Contra Costa supervisor.

The plan calls for much of the county's garbage to be processed at a privately-operated plant near Pacheco. Shredded from that plant would be burned by the Central Sanitary District to create the energy needed to operate its nearby sewage treatment plant.

Pleasanton planners to hold five hearings

PLEASANTON — Long is the word for the planning commission's agenda tonight in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela.

Five new public hearings are scheduled and four continuations are also on the list. The new proposal for the Oak Tree Center is included among new public hearings.

Other items will deal with William Bottini's request to rezone 8,450 square feet at 4224 Stanley Boulevard from service commercial to either central commercial or office zoning and Thomas McManus's application to change the parks and recreation general plan designation for his 66 acres north of Youth Sports Park to medium density residential.

The planning commission also will consider changing 6.5 acres at Sunol Boulevard and near Sonoma Drive from public and institutional zoning to general industrial zoning to accommodate a small computer company which wants to locate on the parcel.

The commission also will look at a proposed rezoning of properties north of Vineyard Avenue and south of the Arroyo Del Valle from First Street to the city limits. The change would be a lowering of multiple zoning densities.
